2020 changed everything.

With dealership visits at historic lows, and digital discovery at an all-time high, it's time to re-inspire auto shoppers in new ways.

Pinterest is where people already come to find visual inspiration related to their lifestyle and to plan all of life's moments, whether that's their next meal, a dream wedding, or even a perfect new family car.

And brands play a critical part of their journey, with 90% of Pinners being open to hearing from local businesses. Your store(s) have the opportunity to reach Pinners in a positive environment without all of the noise, to help move shoppers from inspiration to action.

So let's get started with helping your dealership find success on Pinterest.

Why Pinterest for Automotive Dealers

Because Pinterest influences what Pinners buy more than any social or search platform of weekly Pinners use Pinterest when actively considering products and services to purchase.

87%

75%

of weekly Automotive Pinners use Pinterest for inspiration in their path to purchase.

Pinners are 18% more likely to be in-market for a new vehicle

Connect your business to the Pinterest audience

1 Create a Pinterest Business Profile and Ads Manager Account

In order to promote pins, they need to live on a Pinterest Business Profile. Once the pins live on the Business Profile, you will be able to promote them from an Ads Manager account. Ads Manager is where you create, manage and report on your Pinterest campaigns. Think of it as your Pinterest advertising hub: a one-stop shop to set up campaigns, track results and improve your performance over time.

Check out our business site for more details on creating a business profile.

2 Establish a billable order line or add credit card billing

Before building out the campaigns, billing will need to be set up for the Ad Account(s). Pinterest supports both credit card and insertion orders (IOs).

- For a billable order line, email dealerteam@pinterest.com with your business profile, Ads Manager account, budget and flights dates (dates that your campaign will run, ex. March 1 - 31).

3 Add the Pinterest tag for tracking and retargeting

The Pinterest tag helps you understand what people do on your website after they've seen Pinterest ads, for example, page visits, sign-ups and leads. You can then use these insights to optimize your campaigns. Check out how to set up the Pinterest tag here.

4 Get familiar with Ads Manager

Check out our Ads Manager tutorial to learn how to create, manage and track your Pinterest campaigns, including the most important features to get started. We also have the Ads Manager Guide, which will walk your through every step of setting up your campaigns.

Opening a Business Account

What you get from a business account:

- Control how your business appears on Pinterest with a flexible business profile
- View analytics for your Pins
- Get access to additional features for businesses like video, protected boards, and Pincode features

The Pinterest Tag

By adding the Pinterest tag to your website, you'll be able to:

- Track and optimize conversions.
- Measure campaign performance.
- Build audiences for targeting, such as retargeting and actalike audiences.
- Access Conversion Insights.

There are two components to the tag, the base code, which is the foundation of the tag and needs to be placed on all pages of your website, and event codes, which are placed on specific site actions, such as a VDP page load, or a form fill, to track conversions.

Ads Manager

Create Ad Tab

The Create Ad tab, located in both the Create and Ads dropdown is where you start creating campaigns. You input your campaign strategy, flight dates, and budget to start building your campaign. Then you can create individual ad groups each with their own targeting strategy.

Reporting Tab

The Reporting tab, in the Ads dropdown is your hub for all your campaign performance reporting. Adjust filters by dates and campaign objective. Create custom views for reporting to evaluate your campaigns based on the metrics that matter to you most.

Conversions

The Conversion tab, in the Ads dropdown is where you manage your Pinterest tags and conversion uploads. Also monitor your conversion activity.

Upload Offline Conversions

What are Offline Conversion?

Offline conversions are events that can't be tracked with the Pinterest Tag. For a dealer this may be a service visit or a vehicle sale.

Why Upload Offline Conversions?

Uploading offline conversions provides a more complete picture of the success of your campaign on your sales. You can learn if leads in the CRM, recently sold vehicles, or the months service customers were exposed to your Pinterest ad.

Completing a Conversion Upload

Upload a CSV file with offline conversions into Ads Manager in the conversions tab. We'll then match relevant campaigns to these conversions so that you can then review total campaign conversions in Ads Manager.

Keys to a successful Upload

Upload your file at least once a month and send conversion data within 30 days of each conversion occurrence to Pinterest.

Ensure your attribution window is set to 30/30/30.

Ensure the CSV contains an email address, event date, and conversion source.

Organic Best Practices

Pin Image	Pin Title/Description	Branded	Focus	Action
High quality, vertical image. 2:3 ratio (mobile) 4-15 seconds if video	Title: 6-40 characters Simple yet compelling description: 6-50 character Include relevant keywords and your brand name	Add your logo Simple, subtly branded pins outperform non-branded	Have a focal point, like highlighting a key feature Use text overlay to add context Keep it positive and inspirational	Use CTAs on pins to drive clicks and help guide user behavior

Additional Tips

- Organize your boards.
 - Name and describe your boards wisely. Be specific and relevant. Make sure to use relevant keywords in the description, which can help with SEO.
- Consistent posting. It is better to post a few pins per week rather than posting all at once. You can use the Pin Scheduler to schedule pins in advance.
- Claim your website, Instagram, and YouTube pages.

Reaching car shoppers on their terms

Nielsen was looking to reach car shoppers in their local market and find relevant ways to connect with them in an unprecedented year. Nielsen led with the popular Jeep Grand Cherokee and drove interested Pinners to their digital showroom where they could learn more.

Using insights to drive interest

Nielsen used trending interests, like road trips, to develop creative that would resonate well with the Pinterest audience. By overlaying in-market data from Oracle Data Cloud, Nielsen was able to ensure they were reaching down-funnel shoppers. This combined approach led to Nielsen beating the cost-per-click average of all dealers by 9%.

Conversion optimization

Auto dealer sees service visits on the rise

Len Lyall Chevrolet wanted to increase local service visits to their dealership and used Pinterest to help them find their target audience. They worked with their agency, AET Automotive, to create a combination of targeting to reach their audience including search, interest and zip code targeting.

Conversion optimization gave the extra boost needed and they saw winning results—3x ROAS on their standard ads and earned 14 repair orders at a cost per order of $50.1

Advertiser Tips

- Be sure to use clear messaging on your ads and pair with simple imagery to catch Pinners' eyes.
- Conversion optimization as a campaign objective can help potentially increase key website actions for your dealership such as lead form fills and service scheduling.

“People are on Pinterest to plan for future events like vacations and road trips. The platform also draws auto enthusiasts, so it’s really the perfect place for our retail service ads.”

Betsy Brookshire, COO, AET Automotive
